DIAMOND SPECTACLES

TRADE MARK

These spectacles are manufactured from "XINTON'S" OPTICAL "POLAROID" united together, and are called DIAMOND D on account of their lustrous and crystalline appearance.

Having been tested with a polariscope, the diamond lenses have been found to admit six times as much less heated rays than any other possible. They are ground with great scientific accuracy, are free from chromatic aberrations, and produce a bright and distinct vision not before attained in spectacles. Manufactured by the
